People to People Leadership Summit

Open to students currently enrolled in the 6th through 11th grades, these invaluable ten-day summer programs enable students to gear up for the college admissions process by learning exactly what the top colleges and universities are looking for in high school candidates. In addition, these summits help students develop the leadership skills they will need to excel in the college admissions process.

Leadership Summits are held once a year on the campuses of four top U.S. universities:

- Georgetown University
- George Washington University
- Stanford University
- University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA)

Junior State of America

Junior Statesmen Summer School classes are structured to develop your knowledge of government, leadership and history, your ability to speak and write persuasively, and your appreciation for intellectual and ethical principles. Classes meet 6 days a week. Visit www.jsa.org or write summerschool@jsa.org

Wharton's summer programs for high school students and international undergraduates provide an opportunity to develop leadership skills and explore your interest in business.

Management & Technology Summer Institute

The Management & Technology Summer Institute (M&TSI) is a for-credit summer program for rising high school seniors who want to learn how to bring together technological concepts and management principles. The Institute features classes taught by leading Wharton faculty and successful entrepreneurs, as well as laboratory experience, field trips to companies and R&D facilities, intensive team projects, and other activities designed to help students learn the principles and practice of technological innovation. Sponsored jointly by The Jerome Fisher Program in Management and Technology, the School of Engineering and Applied Science, and the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

LEAD Program

Leadership, Education, and Development \(LEAD\) is a four-week program introducing minority high school students to key areas of business. First established at Wharton, reflecting a long-standing commitment to developing business leaders through business education, the LEAD program has become a nationwide initiative with programs at ten other universities.

Leadership in the Business World

Leadership in the Business World (LBW) is a summer business institute for rising high school seniors who want an introduction to the fundamentals of leadership in business. LBW students attend classes at Wharton. This four-week summer program features classes, trips, and activities designed to give students opportunities to learn about leadership in 21st century business organizations.

Summer Institute in Business & Technology- The Summer Institute in Business & Technology (SIBT) is a four-week summer program for international undergraduates enrolled full-time in universities abroad. The program offers two courses (management and high-tech ventures), site visits to companies, visits from corporate representatives, guest lecturers, and optional coaching on oral and written communications (in English). SIBT, sponsored by Wharton and Penn Engineering, is also an American cultural immersion experience for international students.
